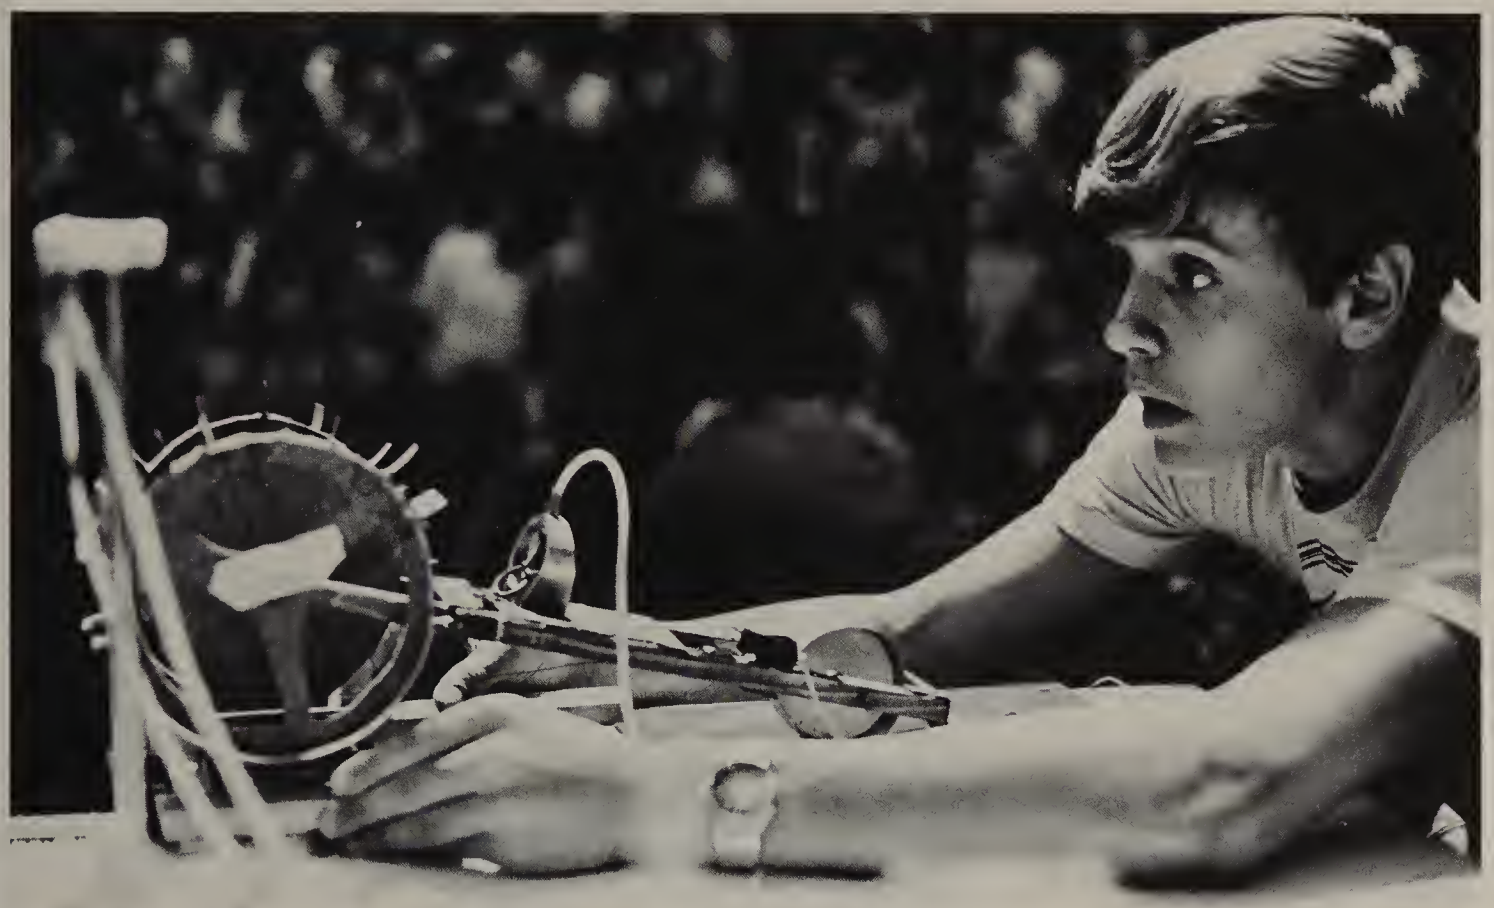
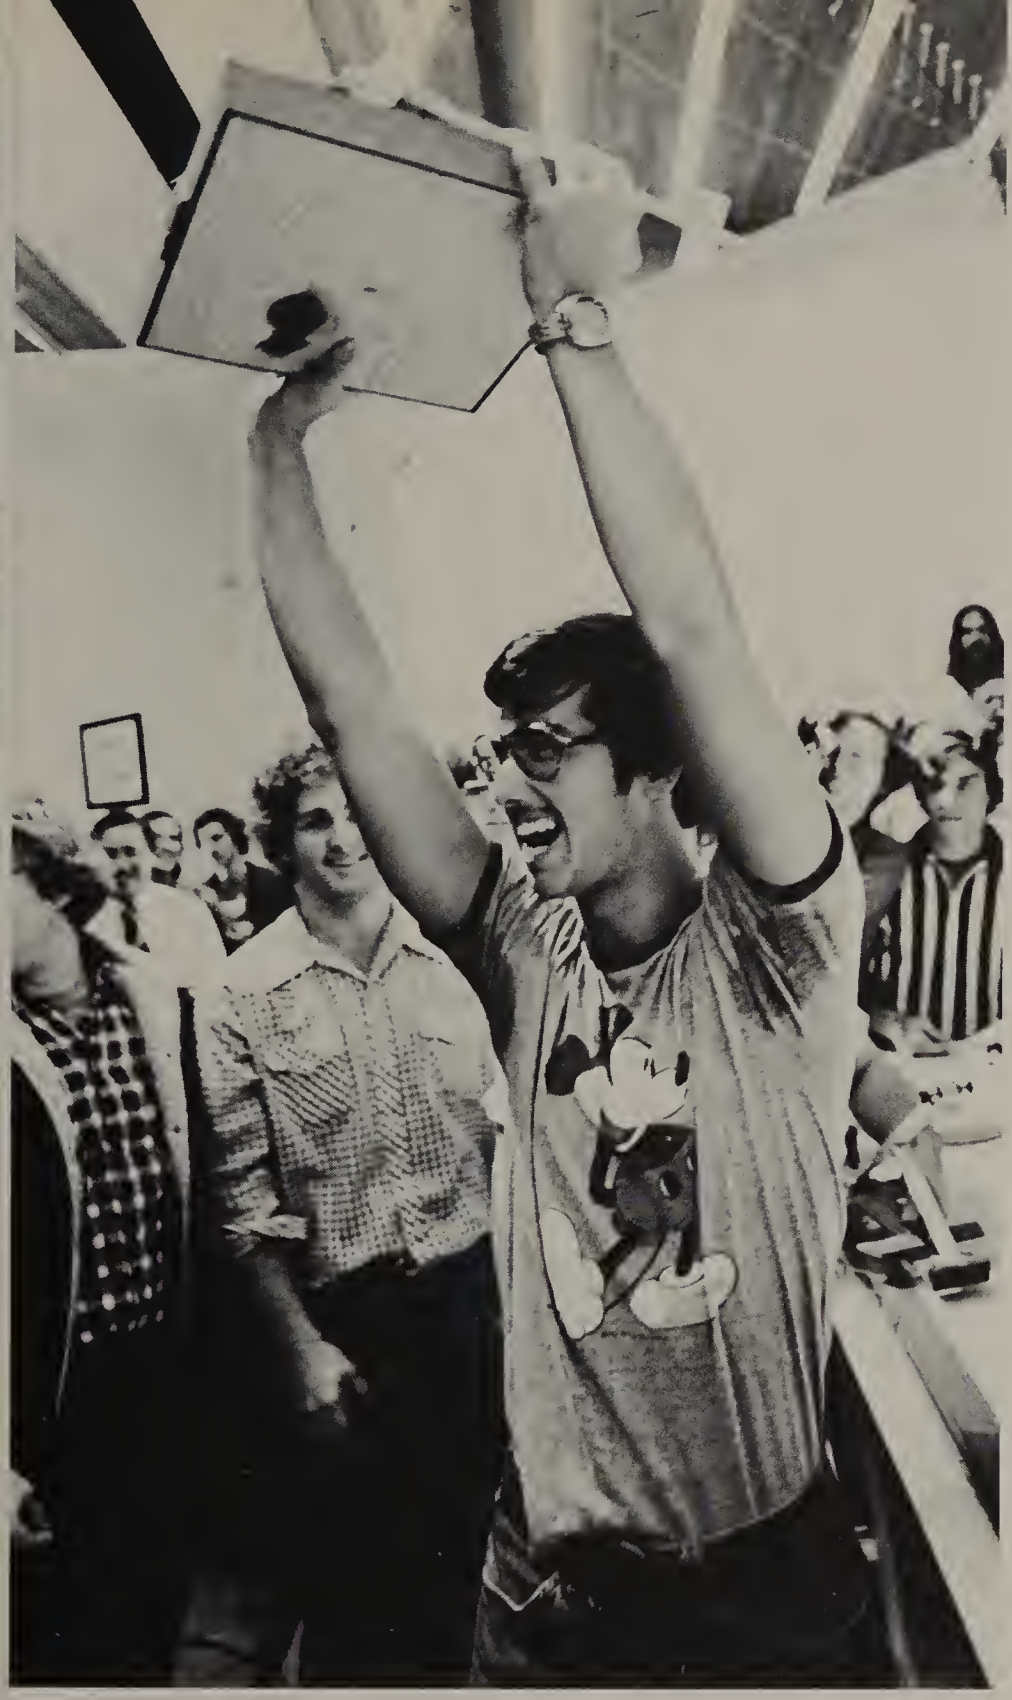
2.70 Design Contest

The 2.70 Design Contest has always been a popular diversion for MIT students. Every year, hundreds more than the fire laws allow pack themselves into a large lecture hall to see a collection of rickety machines do battle in some absurd situation. For the one time each year, the doings of MIT undergraduates are chronicled in the local and national press.

A circus-like atmosphere pervaded the contest this year, as the "achievers" attempted to drag a large brass rat through eight feet of "academic substance" (actually polystyrene pellets). Each contestant was paired with another person, and their machines competed against each other, symbolizing the competition for success at MIT.





Many colleges and universities, in fact, the overwhelming majority of colleges and universities, have homecoming and dozens of other varities of queens. MIT, lacking in such spirit, has managed in the past to select only one Football Queen in the early 1940's. But with the playing of the first homecoming game in over seventy years, some spirit seems to have appeared. The UMOC (Ugliest Man on Campus), Leo Harten, was given the title of Homecoming Queen and a prominent place on the MIT float. He was even entered in a national competition for homecoming queens. And in keeping with this new spirit, Technique has established that hallmark of college yearbooks, a queens section. Enjoy.

Harvard Square

Harvard Square is only 25¢ away from MIT, or if you're feeling energetic you can even get there for free. Emerging from the T station or the bus, one is suddenly assaulted by masses of people, hucksters, homicidal drivers, and a variety of unusual characters. In this commercial nirvana one can find virtually anything, from used records to stoned elephants, even if the price isn't right. Many claim that the Square has lost the eclecticism that it enjoyed in the Sixties, but even if this is true it still retains a unique character. Although any attempt to completely represent such a variety of sensations must of necessity fail, we have tried to capture some of the essence of the Square.

Team Rosters and Records

Men's Lightweight Crew

The lightweights' '78 racing season was quite successful with the crew finishing sixth in the EARC (Harvard, Yale, Dartmouth, Cornell, Columbia, Penn, Navy, and Rutgers). This turned around a sliding record which placed us ninth in '77. The team has gained confidence as a result, despite several frustrating races leaving the team within one second of victory.

The fall season had a shaky start as we lost several oarsmen to injuries and academic pressures (two of our four returning lettermen among them). Finishing a minute behind first place Princeton in the Head of the Charles, the team has a lot of ground to make up and with a new coach, Tom Howes, directing its efforts the team is eager for the racing season to begin.

As we begin our winter training, the necessary depth has returned with a good showing of sophomores and some strong upperclassmen. The 1979 season seems to be a building year, but it will surely prove to be a valuable experience for the whole team.

Men's Varsity Sailing

Varsity sailing had a successful fall season and was ranked tenth in the nation by the yachting magazines. The team is led by seniors, Captain Lenny Dolhert of Boston and Elliot Rossen of Southfield, Michigan. Tech sailors are prepping for continued success in the critical spring season which will determine the New England representatives for the North Americans at Chicago in June. In addition to the team championships, both Rossen (who finished eleventh at Seattle in the 1978 Championship) and Colhert will be strong contenders for the Singlehanded College Championship to be held in New Orleans.

Tech women sailors have been very aggressive and look forward to a rewarding spring season.

Golf

Graduation 1979 will be heavily felt by the M.I.T. Golf Team. Several members who have been the mainstay of the team over the past four years will be finishing up this spring. Captain Mike Varrell, Ex-Captain Les Suna, Player-Manager Doug Wegner, Mark Hughes, and Charles Wilson have been instrumental in the team's 34 won, 21 lost record over the past three years. Two second place finishes in the Eastern College Conference Tournament (1977 and 1978) were highlights. Both times the team finished ahead of Harvard!

Skiing

Half way through the season, the team is looking good. Led by Guy Andrews '80 and Bob Tabakian '80, the alpine squad took fifth place at the Norwich University Alpine Meet, while the nordic skiers were competing on the Eastern Circuit against some of the best skiers in the world. Next, MIT scored a strong fourth place at the Bowdoin Invitational Carnival. A victory in the jumping event by Tom Stevens '79 and good placing in the cross country by John Banevicius '80, Hansell Stedman '79, and Dave Titus '81 highlighted the team's performance.

The squad hopes to keep its momentum through the next two carnivals, including an MIT hosted "home" meet in New Hampshire. Strong finishes would qualify the team for the Division II Championships at Norwich University, with jumper Tom Stevens having the potential to make it to the Division I Championships at Middlebury.

Men's Heavyweight Crew

Prospects for 1979 look good based on an excellent performance at the Head of the Charles in October. M.I.T. finished second in the club eight and seventh out of forty in the elite four. The latter crew had Seniors Paul Denney at bow and Howie Seidler at cox, and their placing was the best we have done in that event since 1974.

More than half the squad this year are Juniors and as we head into the racing season, morale is high, training has been excellent and the crew expects to acquit itself well despite the fact that every single opponent appears to be stronger than last year.

Varsity Soccer

We opened the season well with our first victory over arch-rival Harvard since 1962. Outstanding team performances were entered against Bates, WPI, and perennial New England powerhouse Brandeis. We held Lowell to one shot during the entire game, and scored three goals within a four and one-half minute span versus Holy Cross. The team never quit all year despite four heartbreaking one goal losses and a two goal overtime loss against Trinity. We ended the season with six wins, six losses, and one tie.

Eleven seniors (eight starters) are graduating and will leave large gaps to fill. However, the ten returning lettermen should give us a strong nucleus. With several excellent prospects on the junior varsity, there will be strong competition for starting and backup roles next year.

Men's Gymnastics

For the 1979 season, the men's gymnastics team will have the support of several returning lettermen who made the finals in last year's New England Championships. They include Junior Hrvoje Petek and three Seniors, John Felleman, Bojan Petek, and Jim Cherry, who took second place in the New England Championships on still rings. Junior Robert Lucero also competed in the New Englands.

The Petek brothers will have the help of Freshman Mark McQuain in the all-around sports. Specialist highlights are John Felleman, Robert Lucero, and Freshman Linus Kelly, all on the pommel horse, and Jim Cherry on rings.

Women's Tennis

The Women's Varsity Tennis Team survived a highly competitive schedule to finish the season with a remarkably respectable 3-6 won/lost record. Despite the loss of all but 3 of our varsity letterwinners; freshman Karen Haus's stellar performances did much to fill the void. Strong finishes at several tournaments near the end of the season, including a 12th place finish out of 48 schools at the New England's, encourage a winning spring season.

Women's Basketball

Interest is high in Women's Basketball, now in its fifth season as a varsity sport. There is now a full Varsity and a full J.V. team. Currently the J.V. has an even season and the Varsity is 5-7 and ready to move up — the team is strong. Varsity came in second in the Bates College Invitational Tournament, and co-captain Diane Ozelius '79 was voted MVP. She and sophomore Karen Samuelson were part of the "all tournament team." We are looking forward to even better seasons in the future for both teams.

Women's Gymnastics

This year's seniors were freshmen when Women's Gymnastics first became a varsity sport at M.I.T. The team has shown consistent improvement since that year and has reached a level that is competitive with other schools of our size and position.

The team this season included equal numbers of new and returning competitors. Veteran members were Susan Lau on bars, Wendy Myers and Marybeth Ward on Floor, vaulting and balance beam, Elaine Sears on bars and vaulting, and All-American Leslie Harris on all four events. New to the team were transfer students Linda Dolny and Linda Stoloff and sophomores Kathy Beauregard and Cindy Reedy. Freshman Jo Lee was also a valuable addition.

Water Polo

Despite a stranger team than last year, MIT's Varsity Water Polo Team once again finished third in New England behind Brown and Yale. One of the Highlights of this year's season was a week long trip to California where the squad played such teams as the Berkely Redshirts and Davis 'B'. They did not win a game but Coach John Benedick felt that they learned a great deal of not only playing skill but also a lot about their own mental attitude.

After returning from California, MIT lost a squeeker to Harvard 5-4 but the next week they came back to defeat Yale, 2nd in New England last year, 6-5.

The team's major disappointment came in the New Englands. After annihilating Dartmouth 16-2, MIT faced Yale. Down 6-5, Yale scored a goal after the referee blew his whistle to end the game. The goal was allowed and after five sudden death periods, the longest game in recent New England history, Yale scored to win 7-6.

Women's Swimming

This year the Women's Swimming Team (8-1) had by far its best season since becoming a varsity sport. The team had more depth and talent than in previous years. During the dual meet season the Engineers lost only to Tufts who they came back to beat in the New England Championships at Springfield. This year many excellent performances were made at the New Englands, which led to their outstanding 12th place finish in that meet. In the last event at Springfield, the 4 x 100 yard freestyle relay, the team of Klincewicz, Fabricius, Krull, and Snodgrass smashed both the personal and MIT recrods. Both Krull and Snodgrass broke the one minute mark for the first time and Fabricius and Klincewicz both set personal records. Further adding to the point total at the New England's were: Captain Sheila Konecke, finishing well in the 50, 100, and 200 yard breaststroke; Karen Fabricius in the 50 yard butterfly; Karen Kincewicz, placing high in the 500 yard freestyle, 100 yard butterfly, 100, 200, and 400 yard individual medley. Klincewicz and possibly other members of the team will compete in the AIAW National Championships in Reno, Nevada. This is the first time any MIT Women's swimmer has qualified for the National Championships.

Cross Country

Under second year head coach Chris Lane, MIT's Cross Country team completely reversed its '77 season record of 2-6 to post an impressive 6-2 dual meet record for the '78 season. The Tech harriers showed their strength in the very first meet by recapturing the Engineer's Cup from RPI and WPI. Several outstanding individual performances highlighted the successful season. The climax of the Engineer's season came with a strong third-place finish in the Eastern Championships,revenging both earlier losses.

Women's Volleyball

MIT's Women's Volleyball Team experienced a rebuilding year after the graduation of six seniors from their 1977 Massachusetts Championship Team. The squad was led by three returning lettermen who stabilized a young and inexperienced team. The season was filled with many exciting games, particularly the final match against Springfield College. Although the women lost to their heavily favored opponents, the team displayed the maturity they had gained during the season. Coach David Castanon is sure 1979 will bring a winning season to MIT Women's Volleyball.

Men's Swimming

The Men's Swim Team showed themselves to be the strongest in a decade as they finished their regular season with an 8-2 won-loss record. The highlight of the dual meet season came when the Beavers avenged seven years of losses to Amherst as they overpowered the Lord Jeffs 74-37.

After spending two weeks training in Florida at their own expense the team returned to the frigid northeast. While their tans faded their swimming continued to improve as the team broke five records in the course of their ten meets. Usually records are not broken until the championships. New MIT marks were set by George Dowd (2:06.2) in the 200 yeard butterfly and Mark Huntszinger (2:06.0) in the 200 yard backstroke. The 400 yard freestyle relay team of Mark Huntszinger, John Dieken, Greg Floro, and Dave Erickson also set a new MIT record.

Munich

I am spending my junior year at the Ludwig-Maximilian Universitaet, more commonly known as the University of Munich. The atmosphere here is much more relaxed than at MIT. To a large degree, this is due to the different school system and educational philosophy in Europe. In general, German students take only one or two seminar courses. Unlike their MIT counterparts, these seminars are very difficult, many requiring written and oral presentations. A lecture course is just that — a series of lectures. There are no tests, no homework, and no term papers; the professor just lectures for the entire term. Even more surprising, each professor is allowed to pick his own lecture topic for the semester. The course offerings change from semester to semester and from year to year. If, for example, none of the professors happen to like the Napoleonic Era, there won't be any lectures that cover the period.

As I mentioned, there are no tests during the term. In fact, there are tests only once. In order to graduate with a master's degree (the bachelor's degree does not exist) a comprehensive oral and written state exam must be taken. Grading is very severe. There are almost no "A" grades. A "D" is looked upon with joy because it is a passing grade. Lately, there has been a trend toward the introduction of tests at the end of two years. The students are opposed to this idea, as well as other innovations, such as requiring more seminars and setting a four to five year limit on studies. The general tendency has been to study until one is ready for the state exam, no matter how long it takes. It's a practical idea from the students' standpoint, especially since the universities are virtually free. There is a $15 registration fee each semester, but, to use an MIT expression, that's trivial.

Because of the lack of pressure, student life is very relaxed, even in comparison to a normal American university. Relaxation is made even easier by the abundance of student discounts. For instance, discounted opera tickets cost as much as a trip to the movies. The cultural life of the city runs the full range from the classics to the avant garde. The latter can be found in Schwabing, the student district, which is full of small bars, sidewalk cafes, off-beat theaters and cabarets, and many tourists who have come to see all the quaint bars, cafes, theaters, cabarets, and students. In spite of that, there are a few places where the old artistic spirit of Schwabing can still be found. One can visit the original cabarets, where the artists stand almost in the laps of the first row, and whose stage curtains have only curtain hangers, but are nevertheless painstakingly opened and closed.

On a less intellectual level, going out to a pub for a beer or two is quite popular, and not just among students. The bars have more of the quiet atmosphere of an English pub than the rowdy atmosphere of a wild west saloon. It isn't uncommon to sit at a table in one of the bars for three hours, during which perhaps two beers per person will disappear. Conversation is the main attraction, rather than drinking.

The students themselves are also different in many ways. In general they are much more mature than their American counterparts. The male students are generally three years older than students in the U.S. This is due in part to the extra year of German college prep school (Gymnasium), which is much harder than the American high school. On top of the extra year of school comes at least fifteen months of military service; Germany has universal conscription with no student exemptions. Another difference is that most students come from upper class families. Class standing, although waning in importance, still has a large influence on whether or not a child will go to college.

Dorm life is also different. The first difference that I noticed was the preponderance of closed doors. Students come into the dorm, say hello, and disappear into their rooms. I tried doing something about it at the beginning of the semester by banging on a few doors and saying hello, but I was eventually told that it doesn't work that way. The proper German method for meeting other students is to go down into the bar, conveniently located in the cellar, sit down at a table, and talk to someone. The success rate is much higher. Once you know someone, then you can go beat on his door and talk to him. This points up one very interesting character trait of Germans. In relations with strangers, Germans tend to be very reserved, the general public much more so than students. Most Germans have a wall built around them which keeps out strangers. For example, co-workers in an office will always be addressed as Miss Meier or Mr. Schmidt, rather than Marlene or Wilhelm, even after many years of working together. The major problem is breaking through this initial barrier. Among friends, the Germans are a very warm people. Participation in some type of special activity, such as a party or mountain climbing, helps to break through the barrier.

Exactly why this happens is unclear, but it could have something to do with being part of an "in" group, a form of provincialism. Being an American also helps, especially now that I am fluent in German. America still holds a great deal of fascination for most Germans, and they enjoy being able to talk with someone from the States. In academic circles, being from a prestigious university is also a big advantage, as it opens many doors. Fortunately, MIT is almost as well-known here as Unmentionable-Up-The-River.

The people I have gotten to know here are all interesting and very helpful. The area around Munich is very scenic and the Alps can be seen on a clear day. It'll be hard to leave and return to the Institute. I hope I survive the shock.

Senior House

Our House
Is a very, very, very fine House.
With two cats in the yard,
Life used to be so hard,
Now everything is easy
'Cause of you.

Apartment House

The Exodus and the Ecstasy
The Dorm House Ditty

(Sung loosely to the tune of "Green Acres")

Dorm House was the place to be,
Dorm living was the life for me.
Boston's spreading out so far and wide,
Keep that dorm and give me the B.U. side.

No, the dorm is where I'd rather stay;
I won't travel by MBTA.
I just adore the dorm house view.
Buddy, I like you, but give me Mass. Avenue.

Fresh Air!
  Central Square!
No frats!
  Strat's Rats!

We are not fools,
Good-bye Tech Tools!

Apartment House, we are there!

Academia

Academia. The word originated with the establishment of Plato's academy about 2300 years ago, an institution where philosophers would gather to share their knowledge, as well as teach students. Since the foundation of this first university, things have changed considerably and it now seems that instilling in the student a sense of philosophy, "love of knowledge" in the original Greek, is no longer of much importance.

Science and technology cover a spectrum that has been widening considerably in the past few decades, but the educational process, in America at least, has not kept pace with these changes. Technology has become completely concerned with practical aspects, whereas the theoretical sciences seem to have become continually further removed from our everyday life. This implies that different emphasis should exist for scientific and technological studies, not only for different fields, but within the fields as well. For those interested in the technological aspects, the applicability of the concepts should be stressed, as well as the potential sociological and environmental effects of the field.

In the "pure" sciences, however, the basic concepts underlying the theoretical structure should be emphasized, along with the method by which these concepts were originally determined. In addition, the broader philosophical aspects of the theories should be considered, as a theoretical scientist should also be a philosopher in the original sense of the word.

It appears that the American educational process, and MIT in particular, does not foster these aims. Students are pressured to learn subjects as they are presented, even if this is not done in a manner that is useful and interesting to the student. Thus, one can be forced to obtain a superficial knowledge of a subject in a rapidly paced course, when what one desires is a deep and comprehensive understanding of the field. In a large class, it is not possible to cover the subject to the satisfaction of all the students, while even in small classes the professor is often unwilling or unable to tailor the course to the interest of the students.

Elsewhere in this book, in the "Munich" essay, Tom Russ describes some facets of the European higher education system, in particular its emphasis on individuality and self-motivation. Perhaps it is time that some of this freedom be introduced into the American system in an attempt to alleviate the degree factory atmosphere and to encourage pursuit of knowledge for its own sake, as well as for its practical values. Such a change would be difficult, even if done gradually, for it involves a basic re-evaluation of the goals of the educational process. Many people complain about the system, but few consider the available alternatives or how to implement them. Here at MIT recent controversies have caused some examination of the educational process, yet once the immediate issue is resolved people tend to stop thinking about possible changes. It is time that everyone reconsidered their educational aims and started to work towards improving the teaching system so that it provides the maximum benefit for all.

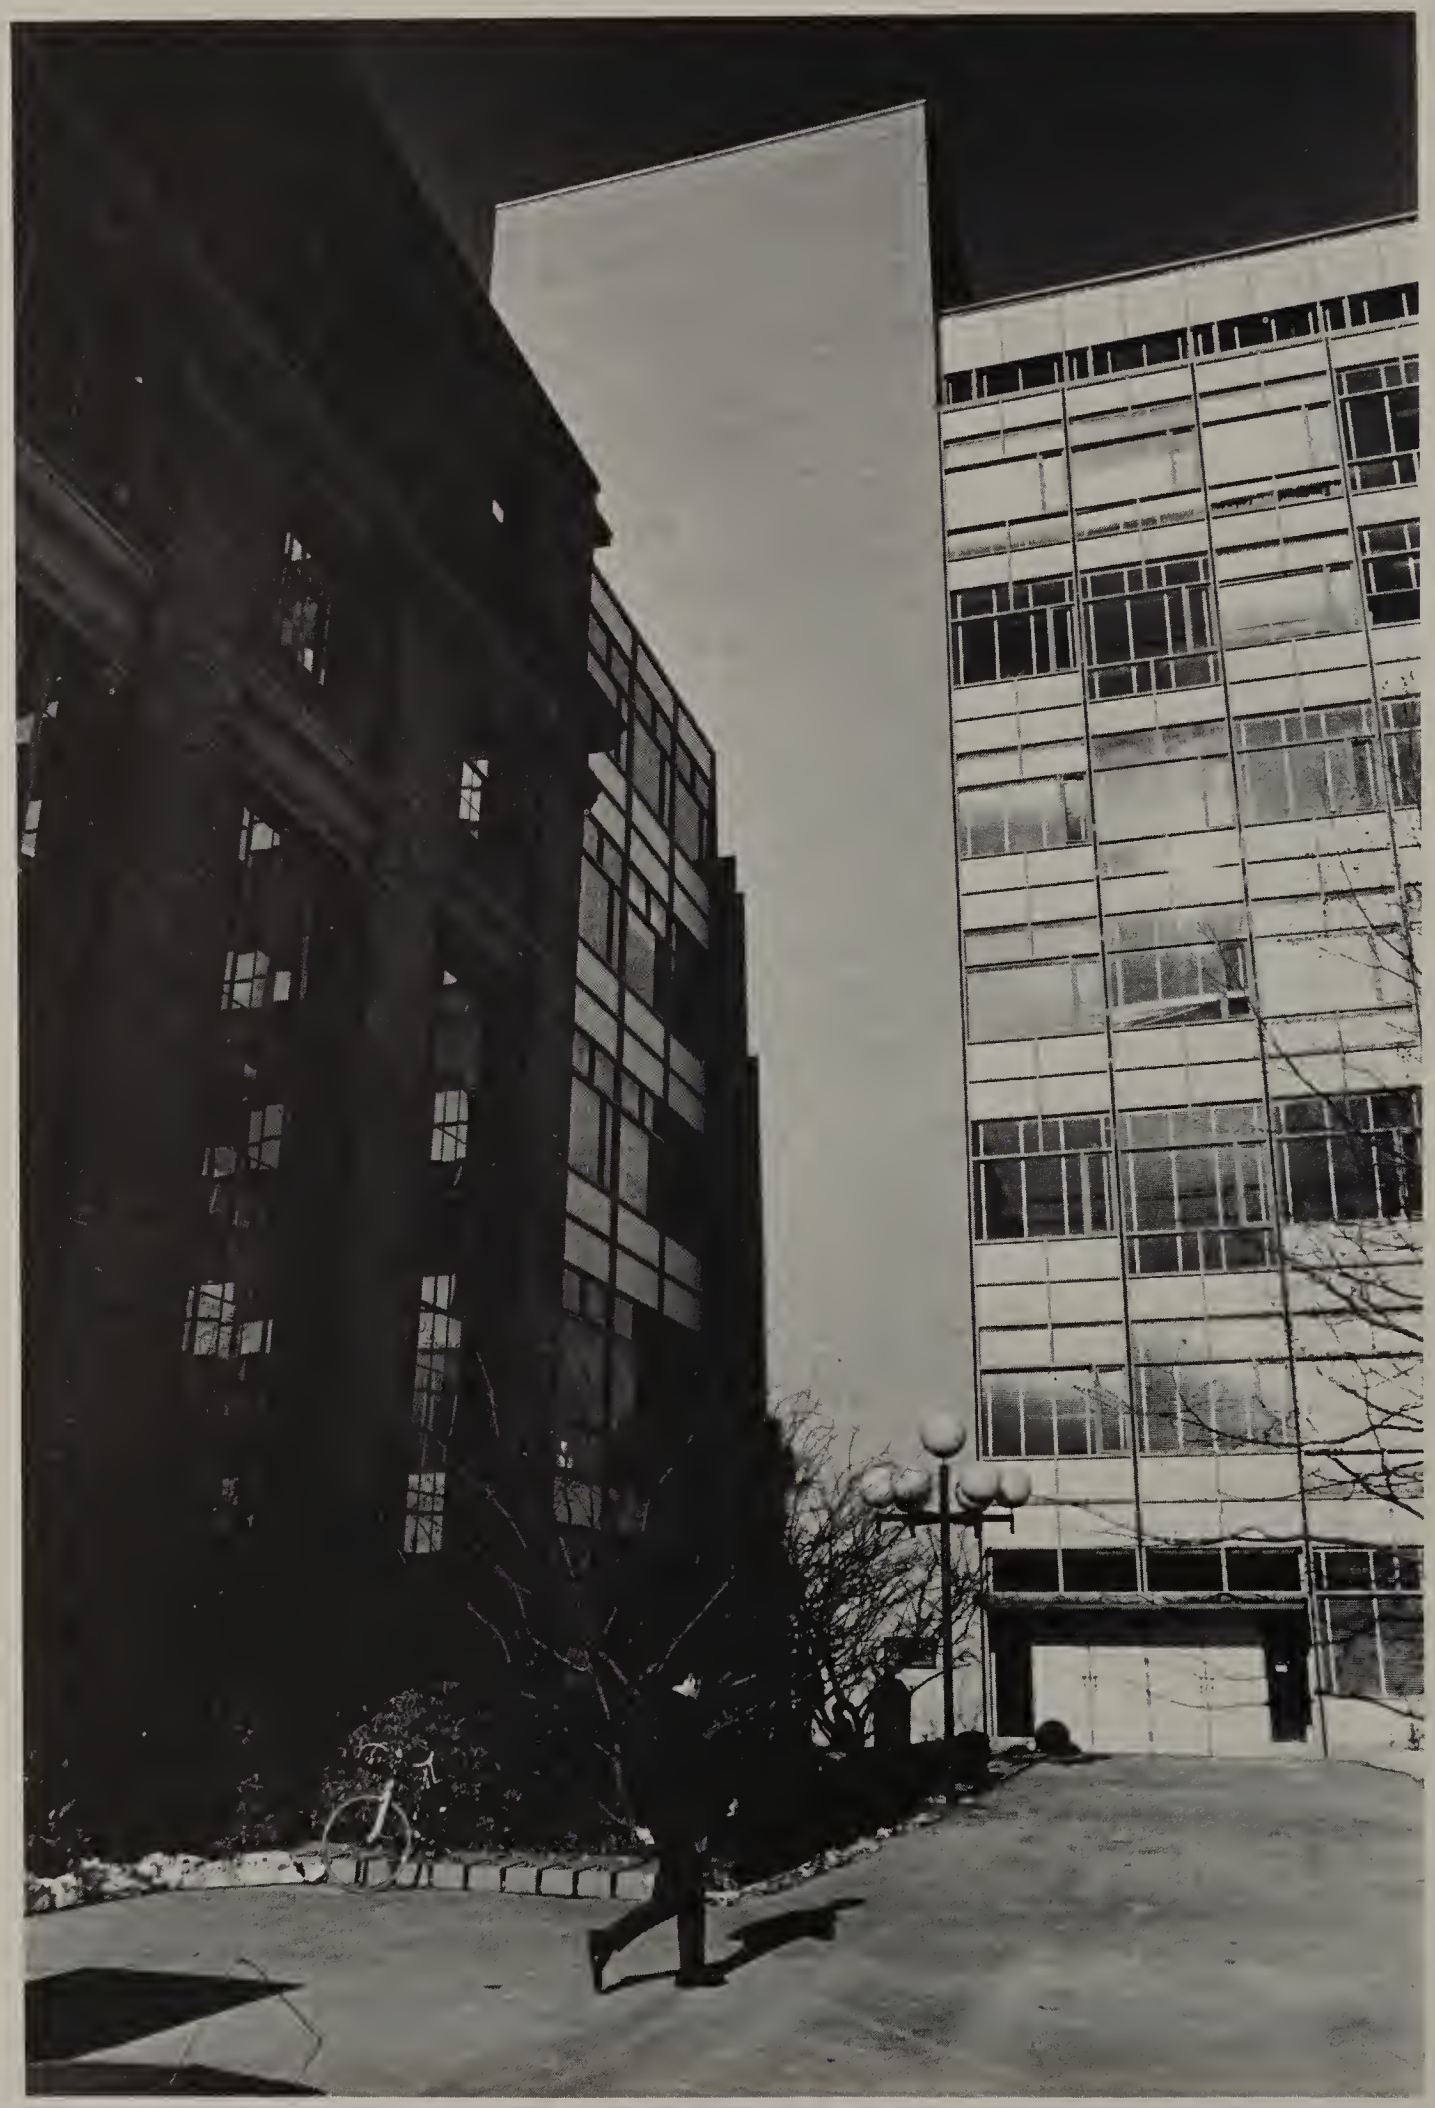
Esoteric Architecture



Grey concrete walls and long bleak corridors often seem to embody the soul of the Institute, particularly after a sleepless night or a sombre rainy day. The architecture at MIT is not as desolate as it sometimes seems though, for it often provides various forms, moods, and patterns, most of which are overlooked in the grind of daily existence. Some of these images, as we see them, can be found here.

Technology.

DEAR old Institute of Tech.,
Our Alma Mater, we
With deepest love and loyalty
Sing, "Hail, all hail to thee!"
Fair Science came at thy command
Our gracious guide to be,
And leads us all to wisdom
At Technology.

Then hail, O Alma Mater!
Oh hail! all hail to thee!
And may thy sons prove worthy
Of Technology.

Her secrets we must work to find,
No sesame has she,
But if we steadfastly will seek
Her hidden lore we'll see;
And when we've reached the goal she sets
She'll give us her degree,
And we must turn our faces
From Technology.

For college joys and labors
Must all too swiftly flee;
But though our paths may sever
Our hearts shall still agree.
This tie shall ever bind us,
This thought our pride shall be,
That we are all alumni
Of Technology.

Another deadline, another sunrise. A year ago, when I took on this position, I had little idea of what the final result of my efforts would be. Of course, I had grand visions of producing a book that would be spoken of in awe for years to come. Over the course of the year, however, I lowered my sights slightly. Now I'll settle for a yearbook that will both aesthetically please and serve as some sort of a record of the year. And looking back on it, I think I've suceeded. I'm certainly not going to say that it's perfect, but I am sort of attached to it.

Of course, I can't claim total responsibility for the book, as several other people had a hand in its production. These were the people who stuck around to all hours, braving the wrath of the CAP. To these staffers, John, Kathy, Jim, Tom, Jeff, Julie, and both Mikes, I extend my heartiest thanks. Thanks are also due Scott Tobias, for helping to con John into staying Photo Editor, Linda Miller for her excellent design advice, Bill Harper for his creative accounting, and Dick Lowe for his eternal patience.

Had I written this letter several hours ago, I would have been strongly tempted to say that it wasn't worth it. But I've often enjoyed myself, and when I wasn't, I was usually learning something. It has been a pain that I won't soon forget, but with the effort almost complete, I can't help but say that it was worth it.

Here it is. Enjoy!

Tech Hifi guarantees to make you grin from ear to ear.

What other stores only promise, Tech Hifi guarantees. In writing.

Our 7-day moneyback guarantee says that you can return whatever you buy from us and get your money back, if our components don't sound as good in your home as you hoped they would.

Our 3-month exchange guarantee lets you live with your equipment for three entire months. And if you're not 100% pleased, we'll give you 100% credit towards any other components in our store.

We also offer you a 60-day defective exchange guarantee, 30-day price protection, 1-year loudspeaker trial, and extended warranties.

In addition to our guarantees, Tech Hifi gives you another reason to smile. Our prices.

Consider what you can buy at Tech Hifi for just $359 (shown below). It's a complete system featuring the top-rated Harman Kardon 330C receiver, handsome Garrard 730 automatic turntable (with Pickering cartridge), and the "best-buy" EPI 70 loudspeakers.

The fantastic sound of these quality components will put a grin on your face.

Our guarantees will keep it there.
